The Hutchins Collection of Defoe and Defoeana, etc.

Items originally in the collection came to the Rare Book Room April 21, 1966. Most of the retained items have been completely cataloged, but some have been given serial numbers (Hutchins 1, etc.), and shelved with the other serially numbered uncataloged books. The List of titles is in the Rare Book Room.

The collection originally belonged to Professor Henry Clinton Hutchins of Yale University. Purchased from Stonehill in 1962 for $20,000.00 at the suggestion and advice of Dean Robert W. Rogers, it consisted of some 400 items with emphasis upon Defoe and other writers of the eighteenth century--particularly writers of travel literature.

1. Introduction

The purpose of this paper is to study the properties of the function $f(x)$ defined by the equation

$$f(x) = \frac{1}{x} \int_0^x f(t) dt$$ for $x > 0$. It is well known that the function $f(x)$ is constant for all $x > 0$. This can be proved by differentiating both sides of the equation with respect to x and using the Fundamental Theorem of Calculus. The result is

$$f'(x) = -\frac{1}{x^2} \int_0^x f(t) dt + \frac{1}{x} f(x)$$

which simplifies to

$$f'(x) = -\frac{1}{x^2} \int_0^x f(t) dt + \frac{1}{x} f(x)$$

Since $f(x)$ is constant, $f'(x) = 0$. Therefore, we have

$$0 = -\frac{1}{x^2} \int_0^x f(t) dt + \frac{1}{x} f(x)$$

which implies that

$$\int_0^x f(t) dt = x f(x)$$

for all $x > 0$. This shows that $f(x)$ is constant for all $x > 0$.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to the study of the properties of the function $f(x)$ defined by the equation

$$f(x) = \int_0^x \frac{1}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $f(x)$ is increasing and concave down on the interval $(-\infty, \infty)$. Moreover, the function $f(x)$ has a horizontal asymptote at $y = \frac{\pi}{2}$ as $x \rightarrow \infty$ and $y = -\frac{\pi}{2}$ as $x \rightarrow -\infty$.

2. In the second part of the paper, we consider the function $g(x)$ defined by the equation

$$g(x) = \int_0^x \frac{t}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $g(x)$ is an odd function and that it has a horizontal asymptote at $y = \frac{\pi}{2}$ as $x \rightarrow \infty$ and $y = -\frac{\pi}{2}$ as $x \rightarrow -\infty$.

3. Finally, in the third part of the paper, we consider the function $h(x)$ defined by the equation

Cox I, 108

2 works in 1 vol., 4to. contemporary calf, slightly worn.

The author was the son of the distinguished physician, Sir Thomas Browne, and like his father was also a physician. As he had recommendations to people of the highest rank and learning, he had opportunities for observations superior to those of the ordinary traveller, who was generally in a hurry. He gives details of the manner of travelling usually omitted by the average man; he describes the sights to be seen in the light of their historical background.
The workings of the Hungarian and Austrian mines were then practically unknown to England, as were also some of the countries themselves he visited."
(Cox)

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to the study of the properties of the function $f(x)$ defined by the equation

$$f(x) = \int_0^x \frac{1}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $f(x)$ is increasing and concave down on the interval $(-\infty, \infty)$. The function $f(x)$ is also bounded, with $\lim_{x \rightarrow -\infty} f(x) = 0$ and $\lim_{x \rightarrow \infty} f(x) = \frac{\pi}{2}$.

The second part of the paper is devoted to the study of the function $g(x)$ defined by the equation

$$g(x) = \int_0^x \frac{t}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $g(x)$ is an odd function, i.e., $g(-x) = -g(x)$. The function $g(x)$ is also bounded, with $\lim_{x \rightarrow -\infty} g(x) = -\frac{\pi}{2}$ and $\lim_{x \rightarrow \infty} g(x) = \frac{\pi}{2}$.

The third part of the paper is devoted to the study of the function $h(x)$ defined by the equation

$$h(x) = \int_0^x \frac{t^2}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $h(x)$ is an even function, i.e., $h(-x) = h(x)$. The function $h(x)$ is also bounded, with $\lim_{x \rightarrow -\infty} h(x) = \frac{\pi}{2}$ and $\lim_{x \rightarrow \infty} h(x) = \frac{\pi}{2}$.

The fourth part of the paper is devoted to the study of the function $k(x)$ defined by the equation

$$k(x) = \int_0^x \frac{t^3}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $k(x)$ is an odd function, i.e., $k(-x) = -k(x)$. The function $k(x)$ is also bounded, with $\lim_{x \rightarrow -\infty} k(x) = -\frac{\pi}{2}$ and $\lim_{x \rightarrow \infty} k(x) = \frac{\pi}{2}$.

The fifth part of the paper is devoted to the study of the function $l(x)$ defined by the equation

$$l(x) = \int_0^x \frac{t^4}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $l(x)$ is an even function, i.e., $l(-x) = l(x)$. The function $l(x)$ is also bounded, with $\lim_{x \rightarrow -\infty} l(x) = \frac{\pi}{2}$ and $\lim_{x \rightarrow \infty} l(x) = \frac{\pi}{2}$.

The sixth part of the paper is devoted to the study of the function $m(x)$ defined by the equation

$$m(x) = \int_0^x \frac{t^5}{1+t^2} dt$$

It is shown that the function $m(x)$ is an odd function, i.e., $m(-x) = -m(x)$. The function $m(x)$ is also bounded, with $\lim_{x \rightarrow -\infty} m(x) = -\frac{\pi}{2}$ and $\lim_{x \rightarrow \infty} m(x) = \frac{\pi}{2}$.

Chardin was a Huguenot who was forced to emigrate to England. He was knighted by Charles II and on his death was buried in Westminster Abbey. His first visit to the East was made in 1665, at the age of Twenty two, when he both gratified a love travelling and carried on his trade as a dealer in jewels. His more important voyage was made in 1671. His route differed from that usually taken by travellers to the East Indies in that he proceeded by way of the Black Sea and the countries bordering thereon. His account of the Persian Court and of his business transactions with the Shah are of great interest."

Cooke's work came out first, but only in this single volume, the latter part of the voyage being related in a few compressed pages at the end. The publishers almost immediately reprinted the work and extended it to two volumes the latter part of the voyage (after leaveing California) occupying the whole of Vol II (Cox)

With a Postscript by Dr. Edmund Halley.. And an Account of the Settlement, Commerce, and Riches of the Jesuites in Paraguay, and London: Printed for Jonah Bowyer..MDCCXVII.

FIRST EDITION In English

4to. old calf, slightly worn, rebacked.

This work forms one of the most valuable of our early records of the Falkland Islands, and to Frezier we are indebted for the clearest contemporary account of the navigation of the French seamen there. Most of these navigators, including Frezier himself, were from St. Malo, and thus the islands became known as the Malouines. To Frezier we are also indebted for the statement that "these Islands are certainly the same which Sir Richard Hawkins discovered in 1593," a statement often quoted later at the time of the English, French, and Spanish claims to the Falkland Islands. This English edition is preferable to the original French edition of 1716, as it contains Dr. Edmund Halley's Postscript, correcting certain geographical errors made by Frezier. Halley is of course most famous now as the discoverer of Halley's Comet. At the end is a 13 page account of the Joint Settlement in Paraguay... This work was very useful in its day and in later times to navigators proposing to double Cape Horn." (Cox)

FIRST EDITION

Folio, contemporary calf slightly worn, rebacked, a few leaves age-browned.

Fryer was a surgeon in the service of the East India Company for nine years and travelled extensively on the Coromandel and Malabar coasts. He describes well the cities of Surat and Bombay, the life and trade there as well as at Madras. Nearly sixteen years elapsed before he could be persuaded to publish the story of his wanderings. At length signed at the frequent appearance of translations of foreign, especially French, books of travel in which English industry and entertainment were deceived, he issued a handsome folio...His book is of great value in its account of the struggle of the Mahrattas under Sivaji to resist absorption into Aurangzib's empire, and in its Analysis of the political state of the kingdom of Brjapur" (Cox)

To qualify them for their arduous undertaking they were invested with some extraordinary powers, such as fiving plenary indulgence, delivering a soul out of purgatory, wearing secular clothes in case of necessity, and of reading prohibited books, except Machiavelli. The first part of the account was made out of the letters of Angelo, who died in the Congo region, and the rest composed by Denis who returned home. The account tells of Brazil as well."

There is undoubtedly a good bit of fiction in the account including some love affairs with native wives, and hair breadth escapes from infuriated husbands. It is highly likely that the little navigation piece by Morris at the end was added deliberately by either Roberts, or the publisher, to accentuate an impression of fact, where none existed.

Second Edition: In which are inserted the Passages omitted in the First Edition. London: Printed

This story is full of the usual matter of voyages to designated ports, shipwrecks on strange lands, manner of life of Austral peoples, etc., but it differs from most of such stories by being extremely well written.
